Local Rustlings.
The races are in full blast at Albuquerque.
A. Ready has moved his barber chair to Kelley & Miller's.

Mrs. Neebitt is building a substantial addition to her residence.

A car load of brick were shipped from the Cerrillos yards this week.

Several dogs have gone on that voyage from whence no bark returns.

F. M. Estes is marketing—some carp this spring from his lake east of town.

Small pox and measles appear to a certain extent, to be current over the country.

Hon. S. D. Baldwin, of Santa Fe, is happy over the birth of a daughter. Lucky Baldwin!

A. E. Laudenslager has a big advertisement in this paper. Look it up and read it carefully.

J. M. Rogers has a notice time for making final proof on his land south of town, in this paper.

There are strong influences at work for the benefit of Cerrillos, which the public knows nothing of.

The RUSTLER has received half a dozen new subscribers from mine investors this week. A good indication.

The fruit trees and vineyards in and around Cerrillos are loaded with bloom. They are not so numerous as they should be, however.

As an evidence that people do come to Cerrillos, the three hotels are nearly always crowded, and at times unable to accommodate guests.

Good sites for a smelter plant at Cerrillos will be donated to a company who will take advantage of the opening for an investment. Information can be had at this office.

Our merchant townsman, W. H. Kennedy, has some fine broods of young chickens. W. C. Rogers' dairy is supplying him milk. The old hens, some how, are not good milkers. The downy infants are doing well.

There is this outlook for Southern Santa Fe county. Men are becoming thoroughly interested who, not only have money, but have influence and brains—brains to manage systematically and influence to insure success. There is a world of meaning in this paragraph.

A couple of leading citizens of Cerrillos occupied prominent seats in the "bald head" row at the Jarreau musical comedy last night. It's a cold day when Cerrillos gets left.

The idea of a smelting plant at Cerrillos is nothing but a plain business proposition—just a good field, with advantages over other locations—a field that with business management will pay from the beginning, and develop the country.

At a meeting of the directors of the New Mexico Central railroad, in Santa Fe, Tuesday morning, were present: Solicitor H. L. Waldo, Messrs. E. S. Stover, A. Stash, M. S. Otero, F. A. Manzanarez and Jefferson Raynolds. The affairs of the corporation were wound up, and its assets formally transferred to the A. T. & S. F. company.

The Rio Grande river is already beginning to break its banks in places. The high-water of the season will probably not be reached before June 1st, or thereabouts. As the river obtains its volume from the snow in the mountains around and along its northern source, and as the amount of snow in that region is the greatest ever known, there is serious apprehension of damages from overflow.

Get a title to your property. If you have a forfeiture notice or an application for patent to publish, it requires three months to run them. A neglect of these little matters may cause you to lose a sale or miss a good opportunity. Your property will be worth more in value on any kind of a market, if you have a title, than the cost of procuring it will amount to. A word to the wise in this matter should be sufficient.

Hon. Chas. F. Easley received a severe blow from a blue ball batted by Dick Mathews, in the game last Saturday afternoon between the fat and lean men of Cerrillos. The ball was like a cannon shot and appeared to whack on Mr. Easley's seat of knowledge about the same time the whack of the bat resounded. Easley was in the pitcher's box, consequently the short distance had not much lessened the force of the ball, which was batted with all the strength in Dick's brawny arms. Mr. Easley was rendered unconscious from the blow, but soon rallied, though the concussion was severe enough to bring blood from his ears, and to confine him mostly to his house since.

The ball game last week between the phats and lean men of Cerrillos, was a highly exciting one. Seven innings were played when the game was terminated by Easley acting as short stop in the pitcher's box. At that time the game scored 29 for the fats and 19 for the leans. Aside from the tallies there were several injured fingers and other damages scored. This paper don't pretend to be an authority on base ball, but, after reading the reports of league games where the combined forces only score three or four counts, it feels at liberty to point with pride to these great home nines who can play an hour or two without practice, and present a record of half a hundred runs. Why, some times they didn't even have to run. We observed on one occasion of a "one base hit" by Tony Nels, that he deliberately walked the round to the home base while some of the leans were fishing the ball out of a bunch of cactus. There was good playing done on both sides, but the fats were the most dignified, hence seemed to impress the crowd with more weight.

Personal Rustlings.

Geo. L. Wyllis visited Santa Fe yesterday.

John Doyle will put in the season buying wool.

G. W. North spent a part of the week at Santa Fe.

Miss Victoria Jones is home from school at Las Vegas.

S. C. Wright was over from Golden the first of the week.

Mr. Thos. P. Gable came down from Santa Fe Wednesday.

Bob Cusack is in from the south today, on his way to San Pedro.

J. T. Forsha spent a part of the week in Cerrillos improving his property.

Capt. S. Davis was in from Galisteo, yesterday, happy and cheerful as usual.

H. S. Lutz, A. T. & S. F., relief agent, has been detailed to Starkville, Colorado, for a month.

R. Kelley, of Kelley & Miller, is in Santa Fe to put up the new $400 license for the year ensuing from today.

Post master J. L. Jenks has been laid off with an inflamed eye for a few days, but skilful treatment is fixing him up.

Frank Willmarth has been spending a couple of weeks of Ojo Caliente springs. He returned Wednesday and will soon go to San Pedro again.

Attorney Geo. W. Knaebel was in town from Santa Fe yesterday. He is one of the tireless business men of the territory, full of energy and rustle.

Superintendent McLaughlin was in from the Copper mine at San Pedro, Wednesday, to meet Mr. Philip Lewisohn, of Lewisohn Bros., New York.

The first of May. The day is suggestive of flowers, fragrance and picnics. It is also the opening of the trout season. The Pecos river is, however, at present too full to afford any sport in this line.

Accidental Death.

Herman Meyer, working at the Cash Entry mine, was found dead down the Central shaft, Wednesday morning of this week, April 29th, 1891. He had been in the shaft the night before, working on one of the pumps which was out of fix, but had come up near midnight and reported to the engineer that the pump was then working all right and took his departure from the engine house. This was the last seen of him until the discovery of his body in the shaft at 5 o'clock next morning. The theory is that on going by the shaft he started down to take another look at the pump before leaving it, and getting partly down the shaft, fell to his death. When found his body was hanging among the timbers, life extinct. The miners were laid off for the day by manager Huhn, who did everything that could be done, and attended the funeral, which took place in the evening, at the Cerrillos Cemetery. The services by Rev. J. M. Crutchfield, at the grave, were touching and impressive. Herman Meyer bore an excellent reputation as an energetic, industrious and thoroughly reliable young man. At the time when stricken by death he was 26 years of age. He came here from Dodge City, Kansas, but was formerly from Indiana, where his widowed mother still resides. The day following his death was to have ended his present term of employment, and he had arranged everything for a visit home to his mother. This is the first fatal accident that has occurred at the Cash Entry, and in all its details, is a very sad one. The sympathies of all go out to the bereaved mother in her far away home.

Mine Rustlings.

A car of matte is being loaded by the Santa Fe Copper Co.'s teams today.

Southern Santa Fe county now offers the best field extant for the prospector.

Copper $13.00 to 13.75. Silver 97½, and Lead $4.12½, are the latest New York quotations.

Properties in the Ortiz range are showing up splendidly. So are a number in the Sandias.

Fair coal shipments are still being made. Cerrillos coals are in demand the year around.

The Cash Entry, it is reported, will add eight additional jiggs to the concentrating machinery.

The native copper find on the east end of the San Pedro mountain is creating considerable interest.

Every miner as well as every man interested in mines in this vicinity, is neglecting his duty so long as he is not a subscriber to this paper.

The big copper mine at San Pedro is said to be looking fine and it is intimated that a largely increased force will be put on during the summer.

Al Perry had on exhibition this week some fine specimens of native copper which came from prospects on the east end of the San Pedro mountain.

F. H. Strong has secured a 50-year's lease on the Ortiz mine at Dolores, and he and others propose to make things hum around the Old Placers camp.

Cook & White are operating the Red Ash Coal mine and have procured necessary stationery this week. They are steady, industrious boys and will do their best to make it a success.

Some important deals are working in properties in the south part of the county, of the particulars of which we are not as yet at liberty to speak. They mean much to this section, however, and are in a fair way of being consummated.

The RUSTLER's perpetual canvassing of this location for a smelting plant, is likely to bear fruit, backed as the statements are by facts indisputable. There is nothing to do but reiterate the one statement over and over again—the statement which slight investigation proves—that Cerrillos is the best and cheapest location in America to-day to reduce ores.

A pleasant party of Wisconsin gentlemen were visitors here this week, all of them interested in mining properties. They were J. L. Gates, L. Abraham, Leopold Hamel and M. Newald, of Milwaukee, and W. P. Wheelihan, of Necedah. All went away well pleased with the outlook and the progress of their interests. Mr. Freschl, who arrived last week, is still at San Pedro.

This paper has established a reputation for authentic statements in regard to mines and mining. Its articles and news items of this character are copied far and near, and have served largely to create the wide-spread interest that is now manifest in the wonderful mineral combination of southern Santa Fe county, perhaps the most wonderful combination ever presented to the miner in so small a territory.

The Mine Exchange Co., is kept busy listing properties for their descriptive pamphlet and for the market. This company is working for the development of the mineral resources of Southern Santa Fe county, and by making these rich resources known it is hoped to establish a market for properties as well as build up great producing industries by enlisting capital. Claim owners will do well to call on the Mine Exchange Company at once. Palace Hotel, Cerrillos N. M.—home office.

A bit of good news for south Santa Fe county is contained in the fact that the stockholders of the Lincoln-Lucky mine at San Pedro, seem to have at last become possessed of a desire to work the mine. In order to arrive at a definite conclusion, a meeting has been called at Albuquerque for May 8th, at which time action is likely to be taken in this direction. It surely seems a wise thing for the company to do. The mine is known to be a good producer, with plenty of ore in sight, but it has been idle so long without cause, that the importance of the property is being gradually lost sight of.

I will commence to deliver ice on Monday, May 4th, 1891, and parties wanting ice will please leave orders at the store. Our ice is by far the best ice on the market.

Notes and Comment.

There are so many smart people in the world that it is dangerous to be dull.

J. C. Kelley, alias Frank Gavin, wanted for the Albuquerque post office robbery, was arrested by Inspectors at Omaha Neb., this week.

The trans-Mississippi commercial congress assembled in Denver on the 19th of May. It is expected to be one of the greatest business conclaves ever held in the west.

At a meeting of the Albuquerque Fair Association last Saturday, the following officers were elected: President, C. C. Hall; first Vice President, W. P. Motcalf; treasurer, S. M. Folsom; secretary, Charles Geach.

The traveling public can reach San Pedro from Cerrillos in three hours by stage. From Albuquerque it is an all-days stage, from sun-up to sun-down. More than this the stage line from Cerrillos runs daily, carries the mail and is one of the best equipped in the southwest.

W. S. Ingram, who formerly lived here, was killed at San Marcial on Wednesday. He was pushing a car on a side track to a convenient place to load with lumber, when the switch engine kicked some cars in and he was caught between the draw bars, death resulting almost instantly.

On the 13th of last December Mrs. Horace Smith, of Evansville, said to her family: "I shall die on the 11th of April, and you can all prepare for it." On the 11th she flopped down on her bed to die as per programme, but her husband was right there with a syringe of cold water to make her jump, and the dying performance was therefore declared off until next winter.

Fresh vegetables, in season, received daily.
